

Input and Output

Input and Output

Input:

We can use the `io.read()` function to read input from the user via the standard input stream. This function allows us to read a line of text from the user.

Output:

To display output to the user, we can use the `print()` function. If we want to print without a newline, we can use `io.write()`.